WARREN SEWAGE SYSTEM MAY BE MADE AVAILABLE TO NON-RESIDENTS

The problem of connecting neighboring homes to the Warren sewer system was faced by council Monday evening and a resolution was passed which provides the method to be followed by those wishing to be included. The cost will be the regular Warren rate plus twenty-five per cent.

If those applying for service number more than five they will make formal application to the borough and to the Warren Borough Sanitary Authority. This application will include much information, such as volume and type of waste, and the names of the people involved. The engineering cost will be paid by the applicants.

The Authority's engineer will make recommendations concerning each application, including the rate to be charged. This must not be less than the Warren base rate, plus twenty-five per cent.

If the number of applicants is five or less the procedure will require action by the borough manager only, who may approve or disapprove the request. The cost will be the Warren rate plus twenty-five per cent.

Present non-residents who are hooked to the sewer system have contracts subject to cancellation. This will be done and they will be placed under the rental arrangement mentioned above.

Council also approved the assignment of agreements with the Pennsylvania Railroad to the Warren Borough Sanitary Authority. These agreements already have been approved but the railroad has special forms which it wants processed. These involve sewage line crossings of the railroad tracks.

AIRPORT REMAINS OPEN

The Warren airport was given new life with the approval of a lease with the Jamestown Aviation Company, owned by Warren B. Skelton. The lease is for five years, cancellable annually, and costing $1 a year.

The lessee will assume the cost of minor repairs, operate the landing field as a public airport, carry proper insurance with the borough as the beneficiary, meet federal and state aeronautical requirements, and will not sublease any portion of the port. A company pilot will occupy the hangar apartment.

The lease is effective November 15. Liability insurance has been increased for personal harm, and reads $100,000 for one person and $300,000 for two or more. Property damage insurance remains at $10,000.

Feeding the dog pound prisoners will not be included in the deal. In short, the nice part of the arrangement is that neither the airport nor the new manager is going to the woofs.

At the request of Mrs. C. C. Bollinger the Warren County Association for Retarded Children was granted permission to hold tag days in Warren on November 22 and 23. Of this, Mrs. Bollinger explained, 70 per cent remains in the local treasury, fifteen per cent goes to the national and fifteen to the state treasuries for legislation and research.

Only one bid was received for a new police car, due probably to the confliction with the arrival of new models. However, three garages personally contacted by Borough Manager Geracimos refused to submit bids.

The offer of Dan Chevrolet, Inc., was accepted. The price, $2,356.55 less $1,036.55 for the old car, for a net cost of $1,320.

The Christmas parking hours were put into effect for the meters with an ordinance amendment which makes the coin collectors effective the evenings of November 30, December 2, 9, 16, 17, 18, 19, 21, and 23.

Burgess Rice and Councilman Emery expresses public dissatisfaction with the East Side fire station as a voting place. It is doubtful if the lease will be renewed with the county commissioners.

Solicitor Knox Harper announced that the closing date for the sewage plant bond issue and the signing of contracts will be November 19.

Council reappointed L. N. Donaldson to the planning commission and C. R. Betts to the recreation board for five-year terms.

Approval was given to the appointment of Leo Gogolats as a probationary patrolman.

The resignation of R. J. Reed from the planning commission was accepted with regret.

A petition for the paving of Hinkle st. was recognized. It was signed by sixty-six per cent of the property owners.

VETERANS' DAY EXERCISES were conducted at the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument in Warren Monday.

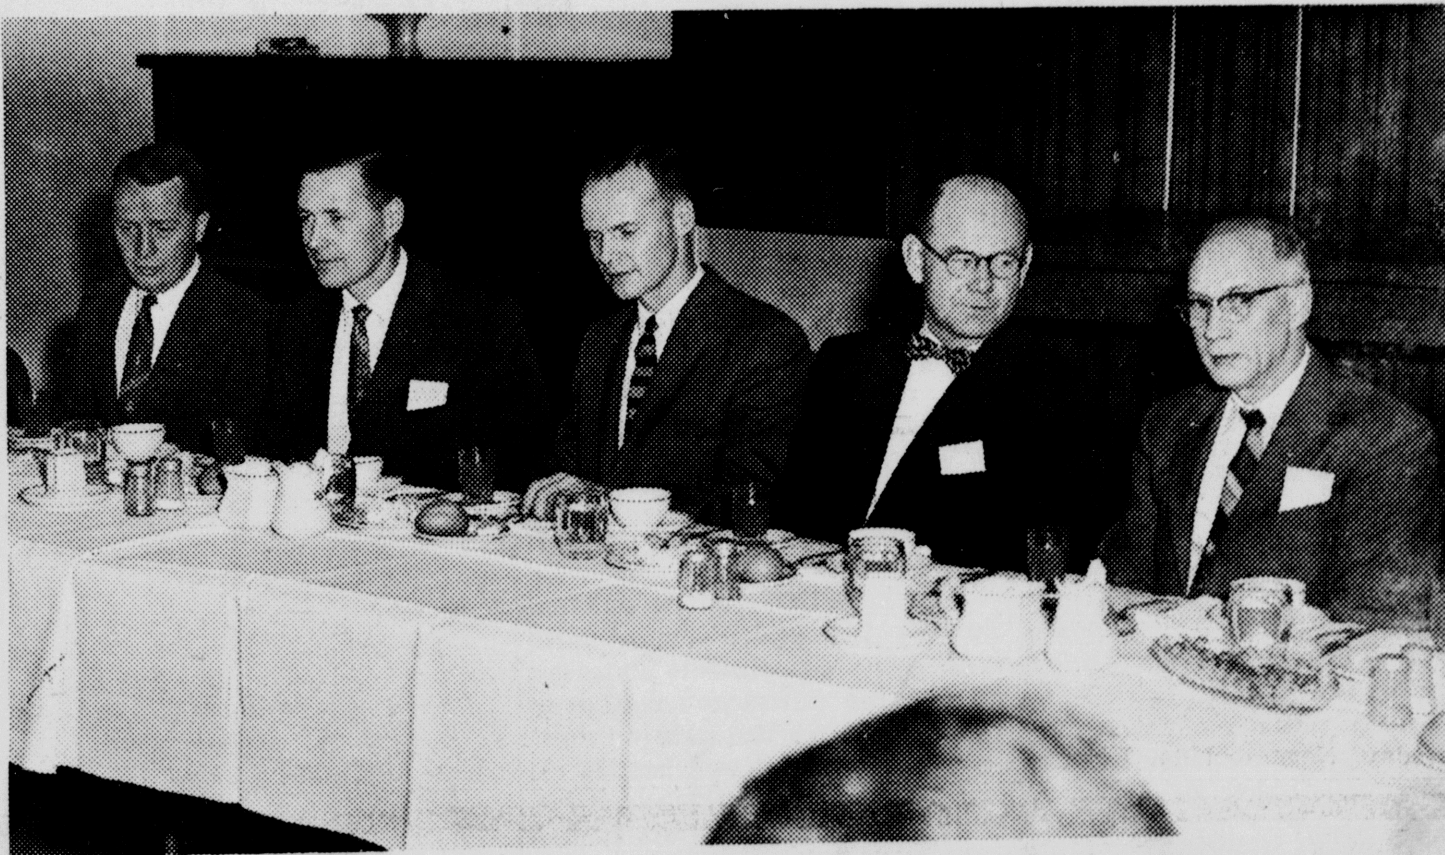

Wreaths were placed at the monument by (l. to r.) Leland Hart, Marine Corps League commandant;

Amil Olsen, VFW commander; and Gregg Borger, American Legion commander.

The Rev. Francis Fehlman, of Salem EUB Church, gave the principle address.

PLOWING through the snow drift along the sideline is Lou Mascaro with an intercepted Jamestown pass. Only a slippery football which slipped from his hand at midfield kept Mascaro from scoring after he had gotten the jump on the Jamestown team.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL was the subject discussed by Jack Hillenber, of Hill and Hill in North East, when he appeared at the Industrial Management Association dinner-meeting Monday.

president Robert Newman, president James J. Ryan, Mrs. Hillenber, YMCA general secretary Julius Thorn, and secretary Harry McKay.

MARCONI BRIDGE

Last Monday provided another competitive evening when the Marconi Bridge Club members met for their weekly tournament. The following were top scorers for the evening:

NORTH-SOUTH -- Average was 70, maximum 140 -- Mrs. Helen Rockwell and Mrs. George Sarvis tied with Robert Larsen (Jamestown) and H. D. Kopf, Jr., 82-1/2; Mrs. Adele Holland and Mrs. Fred Weigle, 67-1/2; Mrs. Shurl Glass and Henry Hunzinger, 64-1/2.

EAST-WEST -- Average was 60, maximum 120 -- Mrs. J. A. Bevevino and Mrs. M. A. Kornreich, 76; Mr. Kornreich and Joseph A. Scalise, 66; James R. Valone and

J. A. Bevevino, 63-1/2; Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Israel, 58-1/2.

Next Monday night will highlight a New Partner Game and a large turnout is hoped for. A cordial welcome is extended to all interested area players. Concluding the game will be an informal buffet lunch.

BLACK SMUDGE in the midst of winter's new white belches forth from Beaty school. This and a few other large chimneys around town cause much of the airborne dirt. In this modern day of heating we hope that our new high school will utilize the much more economical and certainly much cleaner gas system.

Observations

By Bob Walsh

LET'S ROLL THEM UP

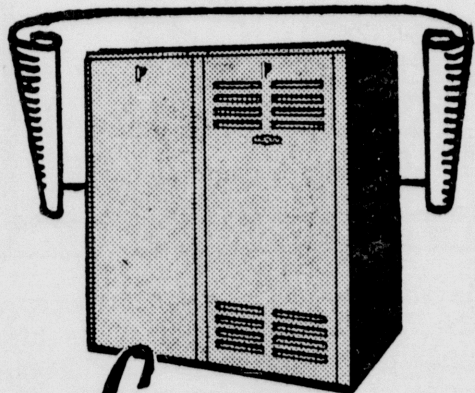

The government official who is quoted as saying that the competition between our armed forces is the best way to get things done has something between his ears which suggests a hereditary throw-back to the stone age. If two heads are better than one they certainly should be close enough to share their knowledge and inspiration.

If there has been competition between our forces, as this man has admitted, it easily could be the reason the Russians are up there a thousand miles looking down at us. When we let the friendly rivalry that exists on the gridiron carry over into work so serious that the very life of our civilization depends on it, the time has come for our military play-boys to get their thinking straightened out.

We wonder if a forceful change can be expected with a former army commander in the White House. Especially an army commander who believes the executive branch of our government should not take strong stands and attempt to lead Washington officials.

UNMISTAKABLY, it's true luxury heating with a famous Pennsylvania Air Conditioning Gas Furnace—even, constant temperature without effort... new cleanliness... years of efficient, trouble-free furnace operation. The cost of this investment in more comfortable, gracious living? A surprisingly low figure that becomes still less, when you take into account the true dollar-value of a happier, healthier home. Proof that our competitive system of developing weapons has not been successful is the recent order to the army which now is being told that it should try to put a satellite up there with sputnik and pupnik. It seems the navy has failed. But the army without even trying has had satellites ready to take off but has not been permitted to use them.

If this is true, it is apparent that if the army had shared its knowledge with the navy our satellite could be airborne. You do not share knowledge in competition. You hold it back so that your team can execute a double reverse on the weak side with no ball while the quarterback sneaks up the middle.

But in war time, and who is there to say that we are not at war in the defensive sense, and certainly a budgetary one, you put your muscle and your brains together in a common, cooperative, coordinated effort. Every little discovery is shared, and the light shines much more quickly in the laboratory, with physical results accordingly.

TO LIVE OR NOT TO?

Two weeks ago we wrote a "think" piece of a general nature, and were pleased to receive many responses, some of which included philosophical, sociological, and political writing for our use if we wanted it. We prefer to get down to the job before us at the present moment. And to do so is difficult, because the average layman, or citizen, doesn't know much about the inner-workings of our defense system.

It seems our immediate job is to stay very strong while peacefully attempting to help the world move toward a relationship which will prevent wars in the future. Obviously we must stay abreast of any man or group of men who could start a major war.

We suspect that it is possible we will find men within the Russian government whose ambitions might lead them to attempt to do what Hitler and his backers failed to accomplish. We do not say that this is the present leader, but it is obvious that the soviet one-party system and its lack of true democracy provide a natural medium for mad dictators to spawn and to plunge the world into war with a few diplomatic maneuvers, such as the Syrian-Turkey situation, and the push of a missile control button.

We believe the day of major wars is past, thanks to the H bomb. But that doesn't mean that an ambitious madman can't come along with an idea for leveling the enemy with one swoop of H explosives. He might be willing to risk it and might convince many around him that it could be done. Boom would go civilization as we know it.

In view of this we must keep strong. And we can do that only through the wisest use of our materials and abilities. While Russia concentrates the scientific brains of its nation on fields which make world dominance possible by force, we divide ours several ways. Part are assigned to the army, another group to the navy, some to the air force, and a third group to private industry where they design gadgets for cars, refrigerators, and television sets.

It is true that Russia does not have the cars and the television sets. Obviously we are far ahead of them in the provision of comforts for our citizens. But while we revel and romp in the lush living, we may be losing it!

According to Alexander P. de-Seversky, in a Person to Person interview by Edward R. Murrow, one out of every three Americans will be dead in three years if we do not reorganize our efforts along missile and nuclear lines. And Mr. Seversky has had a very uncomfortable way of being right about such technical matters in the past.

MONEY NOT THE PROBLEM

If money is the answer, this nation has it, but we do not think that our need is a greatly expanded military budget. A more efficient use of what we already have, a sharing of knowledge by the scientists in our various services, and the full use of our man and brain-power would do much with our present funds.

If more money is needed it is in contributing areas. Help to our schools certainly would be a long range contribution to the race in which we find ourselves during this technical era. And money for the good health and security of our individuals will provide more men, healthier men, and a more contented citizenry.

Let us not forget one other little item concerning the budget. You are not going to finance a growing family on the same budget that paid the bills for two. America's population is expanding rapidly. It will cost more to provide services for it. And it also will provide more money in taxes. Your budget is not going to be reduced under such a combination of conditions.

headline, let's roll up our sleeves. Not excitedly, frantically, or in a bad state of jitters. If it is not militarily important that we launch a satellite, why not stay with our regular vanguard schedule, but at the same time prove, if possible, that we have the knowledge and the ability and the forces with which to make a war impractical for all the world powers involved.

If we cannot prove this, then we are behind in the missile field, and we should join our efforts toward the task of catching up. To do this the scientist expediter, Dr. James R. Killian, must be more than an advisor. He must have power to pool our scientific resources and knowledge.

And we as people and as a nation must learn to share. From the extreme of keeping knowledge from each other even within our own nation, we must join with our free world allies, who also possess much technical ability. The free world and this free nation can win the way to true freedom for all only if we use our talents to the fullest degree, and we can save the present situation only by learning this lesson quickly and applying it to the comparatively simple problem of stratospheric and planetary communication and travel.

BUT HOW SAFE ARE THEY?

Most of the new cars now can be seen and as you know by now, the changes are very slight. It is a smoothing-up year, with ride improvements and perhaps improvements in automatic shifts. Basically most of them are the same cars with lines very similar to 1957.

This is all right by most of us. If a car has good lines and they are characteristic, must they be changed radically, just because it is another year? We have complained before because of radical body changes. Now we hear complaints because there is little change. We are spoiled a little.

Why are we not demanding safety advances? The play-down on increased horsepower should fool no one. Though you hear little about increased speed, the engines are coming more powerful than ever. But with the speed and power increase no real step is taken toward the safety of the motorist. One engineer, testifying before a congressional committee, said that the safety belt has not proved its worth. He said he had invited those who claim the belts are valuable to wear one in a crash. No one has accepted.

They still accelerate too quickly to an unnecessarily high speed on roads not built for it and with a large percentage of proud drivers with more under their belts than their underwear.

POLLUTES EDUCATION

The mail order "Bachelor" and "Master" degrees and "College

Equivalency Diplomas" sold by Joseph Jayko, Adams, Mass., are "fake and unlawful," a Federal Trade Commission hearing examiner has ruled.

The examiner, Loren H. Laughlin, issued an initial decision containing an order which would prohibit Mr. Jayko, who trades as Cramwell Institute and Cramwell Research Institute, from representing that he has authority to award degrees and diplomas, and from using the word "Institute" in his trade name.

This is not a final decision of the Commission and may be appealed, stayed, or docketed for review.

According to the examiner, Mr. Jayko sells tests through the mails and awards to those buying and passing these tests degrees "in a large and practically unlimited variety of academic, professional, scientific and business subjects." These subjects include accounting, business law, personnel management, engineering, electronics, mathematics, and others.

The examiner said the degrees conferred by Mr. Jayko do not constitute degrees in the accepted meaning of the term and "are of no meaning and effect whatever."

The examiner described how the degrees are awarded. After the payment of a $20 advance fee by the applicant, "tests" are mailed to a so-called "proctor" -- a friend selected by the purchaser. The proctor then asks the questions and returns the answers to Mr. Jayko, who evaluates them, issues his "equivalency" diplomas, and destroys the tests. In this connection, the examiner pointed out that these diplomas are issued only after payment of the balance due and that Mr. Jayko's present fees are $47.50 at "the undergraduate level," $27.50 "on a high school level," and $57.50

"on the Master rating."

Although Mr. Jayko had claimed his "test" questions occasionally are prepared with the aid of "consultants," the examiner pointed out that the record does not show the consultants' qualifications or the work each did.

In any event, he said, Mr. Jayko is the final judge of the qualifications of those to whom he awards degrees, and he also determines if the applicant is qualified to take the tests. "The real qualification," the examiner said, "is the applicant's ability to pay the initial fee for the 'test' and later to pay whatever balance is required for the 'equivalency degree' and 'diploma' to be awarded in that case."

The word "Institute" in a trade name, the examiner said, implies the operation of a resident institution of higher learning with a staff of qualified educators offering instruction in philosophy, the arts and sciences, and other subjects. Mr.

Jayko's use of the term is deceptive, the examiner found, as his "Institute" does not have buildings, campus, classrooms, a library worthy of the name, laboratories, faculty, students, or any courses of study.

Mr. Jayko's office, located in the First National Bank Bldg., 26 Center St., the examiner added, "only consists of a sort of foyer and two larger rooms, comprising in all an area approximately 40 to 50 feet by 25 feet."

Noting that Mr. Jayko has filed an application to incorporate Cramwell Research Institute, the examiner said: "It would be a travesty upon public rights to permit the respondent... to continue selling such degrees under any corporate cloak or otherwise. The public interest in this proceeding is manifest since it involves a pollution of the whole stream of American educational standards by respondent's false, misleading, and deceitful practices...."

ASIDES

POLITICS IN REVERSE

A candidate in the last election tells us that some of his party associates were called by a former party leader and asked to stay away from the polls. Add that to a wet day and you have the low vote explanations piling up high.

ONE LINE?

Is Warren County about to have only one railroad serving its area? Talk of a merger between the Pennsylvania and the New York Central suggests we are heading that way.

JUST LIKE WASHINGTON

We note that the Warren county commissioners have a committee studying the county library proposal. A previous committee already has made a thorough study of this subject. Other states and counties which have such a service were visited. Facts were obtained from numerous areas where bookmobiles function, the financial statements obtained, and other details stacked up.

Members of the committee who had not been convinced were moved to agree by the overwhelming evidence. State help was ascertained and many county groups were contacted. The Grange and the PTA units in nearly every community petitioned the commissioners to provide the service, or approved the idea.

In addition the former committee came up with donors who would buy the bookmobile and PTA groups which were ready to raise money for books! Nice start?

All that the commissioners needed to do was turn to the telephone and confirm the facts with the state and others. Neither the former nor those who now occupy the county office chose to do this. Instead, the current administration is being very Washingtonian about it and has named another committee to do it over again.

(In fairness to the commissioners we should mention that the original committee was not appointed by them, but was recognized by both administrations and was asked to make various studies, which it did with affirmative results as far as the library service was concerned.)

NO MORE FREEDOM

The right of the people to know by means of all news mediums available again has been denied them by the American Bar Association. Cannon 35 which opposes the admission of news photographers, television cameras, and radio mikes in court rooms has been rewritten by a special committee after 18 months of labor, but it still says the same thing.

We admit that the sudden opening of the doors in every court room of the nation to these mediums would require some very careful doing, but we do not think it is impossible, and we believe it is time we took a positive step in that direction.

If the lawyers won't do it, you can be sure the press will continue to hammer away.

NEW ROBES NEEDED

You can help buy a robe for the boys and girls in the three singing groups which play a major part in the music activities of our Warren schools. Tags will be sold by the Music Boosters Friday and Saturday of this week to raise money for this purpose.

There are 470 boys and girls engaged in organized instrumental music also. And the Warren School Music Boosters provide instruments, summer instruction, and money for trips.

All of this can be boosted by you with a little tag.

FLUORIDATION ANSWER?

At the risk of reviving the fluoridation debate; what happened to it? We note that about 25 million people now are drinking fluoridated water in this nation. Others are claiming that the answer is a tablet program. New York City says it can get the same results for its young people at one-fifth the cost by dishing out fluoridated pills.

OVER-PAID

Bartenders and musicians have been overpaid. At least by the Pennsylvania Bureau of Employment Security. The bureau says $1,181 claimed by seventy-six Pittsburgh musicians for unemployment is erroneous. And it is questioning $10,201 for 115 bartenders in Philadelphia. What'll you have? The state wants it "back".

BOVINE HONORS

Warren county's holstein herds seem to be rating well in the classification columns. The Holstein-Friesian association rates the animals by comparison with what it considers true-type holstein cows or bulls.

Very Good is tops and the Rosecliffe Farm has four of these. It also has fourteen rated as good plus, and eleven as good. Edward Day, of Youngsville, has seventeen good plus cows and twelve good. And O. C. Tritt of Warren has a "good" one.

BEING GROOMED

Will it surprise anyone if Adlai Stevenson becomes a secretary of state? If not the next one, perhaps the one after the next.

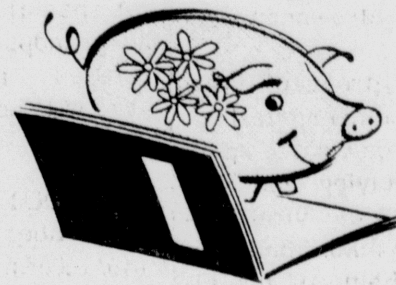

EMERGENCY

The end of politics as usual to go with business as usual suggests an emergency has been recognized by Washington. The use of Adlai Stevenson in the NATO field is a bi-partisan step not routine with the present administration's policy.

PUBLIC EVENTS

FROM SHOWBOAT TO BROADWAY is the billing under which an Antrim Bureau quartet will present a concert in the Tidioute high school auditorium on Friday evening, Nov. 22 at 8 o'clock. The Activities committee of the Tidioute Area Joint PTA is sponsoring the concert for which all tickets are priced at $1.00.

The program will include songs from the showboat era, light opera and Broadway musical productions. The beautifully costumed quartet of exceptional artists promises a truly outstanding attraction.

GENERAL

A JAYCEES JOE AND JANE JUMP will be held Saturday, November 16, in the K. of C. Hall, starting at 8:30 p. m. Tickets are $1.50, and all Jaycees and auxiliary members are urged to make their reservations by tonight (Thursday) by calling Bill Hesch, phone 2727.

There will be dancing, food, and refreshments for all.

FARMER-ROTARY NIGHT will be held at the Eisenhower high school at 8 p. m. Tuesday, November 19. Dr. Alfred L. Bortree, D.V.M., professor of Veterinary Science from the Pennsylvania State University, will be the speaker of the evening.

Musical entertainment will be provided by the high school pupils, and a prize winning 4-H demonstration on "Gun Sense" will be presented by John Carmody, Jr., from Cherry Grove. Carmody's safety demonstration prepared for Annual 4-H Club Week at Penn State this past summer was judged first place in the state.

A buffet lunch will be served following the program.

A LABOR INSTITUTE sponsored jointly by Warren, McKean and Potter county labor councils, Pennsylvania Federation of Labor and the Pennsylvania State University, will be held Saturday at Beaty junior high school. The Institute will be an all day affair, and the main speaker will be an AFL-CIO National officer from Washington, D. C. A warm luncheon will be served.

Registration will take place from 9 to 9:45 a. m., at which time the program gets under way, lasting until approximately 4 p. m. Delegates are urged to bring their wives. School students are also encouraged to attend.

Purpose of the program is to give the affiliate members of these central bodies the chance to spend a day together studying and discussing problems of vital importance to them as union members and as citizens. Theme of the Institute is "Labor 1957", and topics for discussion will be "Do High Wages Cause High Prices?", "Is Labor Meeting its Community Responsibilities?", and "Labor and the Government".

States Rights Used To Stifle Education

By Thomas L. Stokes

WASHINGTON -- A couple of incidents come back about Soviet Russia in the midst of the Second World War that seem apropos now.

They were related by the late Wendell L. Willkie when he got back from his morale-boosting trip to our allies all over the world, a mission approved by President Roosevelt who had defeated Mr. Willkie for President in the 1940 election.

One incident involved the head of the great National Library in Moscow which Mr. Willkie visited during his stay in Russia. The library director led the American tourist to a balcony outside of the library building so the two could talk without possibility of being snooped upon or picked up in recording devices. Mr. Willkie inquired of the Russian how he could live in such conditions where he was, in effect, under constant surveillance, and was surprised to discover that this was a secondary to a compensating pride in something else.

The Russian told Mr. Willkie that he was the first person from peasant stock who ever had been head of the great National Library.

Identical was another incident during the American's visit to the front where Russian armies were then in a death grip with Nazi armies. There he talked with a 38-year-old lieutenant general in charge of one sector of the front. Proudly the officer told Mr. Willkie that he was the first peasant who ever had such a high rank in the Russian army.

This pride in new-found opportunities and the emphasis on material things impressed the American good-will ambassador who compared it to our similar emphasis during our expanding era of the 1880's, but in the case of the Russians, unlike ourselves, it completely subordinated interest in individual liberty and freedom of speech. That is understandable, of course, since there had been little liberty or freedom of speech among the peasants and lower classes during the time of the Czars.

Russia still is in this surging era, yet without the freedoms that Wendell Willkie thought they might acquire in time. They are still under the compelling drive of the personal pride he saw 15 years ago, however, with great stress on material accomplishments to which we are waking up again in the swirling Sputniks and missile development and scientific advances which have left us behind, and which the Soviets quite naturally made the centerpieces in the 40th anniversary celebration of the Revolution.

We cherish our freedoms, which we intend to keep; but unless we get up and about and prove that we can do as well as Russia, we won't make a very good example before the world. Nor can we nourish a lot of nonsensical notions about freedom that include reluctance to use our Federal government, which belongs to all of us, and bury ourselves and our initiative in something called "state rights."

An example is education, in which Russia is making her greatest strides. While she is literally performing miracles in expanding her 10-year primary-secondary school system so that its enrollment now is 30 million compared with 11.5 million 30 years ago, we have been arguing, fussing and fuming about whether it is all right for the Federal government to use tax money provided by all of us to build sorely needed school houses.

One of the foremost conservatives of this era thought so -- the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio. Ten years ago, back in 1947, he sponsored and got through the Senate a bill authorizing $300 millions a year for education -- not only for buildings but for teacher pay, or whatever else the state needed it for. State control of distribution of funds which was imposed avoided any Federal interference in education.

It was defeated, however, in the House as bills limited only to construction of schools have been killed in the House in the last two sessions of Congress, with both parties sharing the blame.

How Russia is forging ahead in education is revealed in a 226-page volume published today by the U. S. Office of Education, representing two years of work, an eye-opener which should give us pause. In a foreward emphasizing how much Russia is doing, especially in science and technology, U. S. Commissioner of Education Lawrence G. Derthick cautions against any change in our basic concepts of free education, which he says are unsurpassed, because of the Russian example. The he adds:

"Rather, it should challenge every American to re-examine the extent to which we as a people support our democratic system of education. It should, in fact, challenge Americans to take new interest in meeting the needs of our schools, colleges and universities as they serve the purpose of our society: freedom, peace, and the fullest development of the individual."

It should indeed challenge us, and it should, so far as this reporter sees it, dispel spurious ideas about "state rights" in education which have killed bills to provide for our schools out of our common Federal treasury. Especially in this era when high school boys can drive an automobile in a day across several of those imaginary lines we designate as state boundaries, and see school boys just like themselves, citizens of the same country, for all of whom we should provide out of our common treasury for a good education, without regard for imaginary lines drawn on a map.

A COLORFUL ADDRESS by Mrs. Arthur Wilmurt, of Pittsburgh, and granddaughter of Madame Schumann-Heinke, was presented members of the Warren Woman's Club and Philomel Club in a joint affair Monday afternoon.

The guest speaker gave her audience a resume of her life during 1931-36 when she lived and travelled with her grandmother.

The gowns belonged to the Madame.

NEW OFFICERS of the Warren County Future Homemakers of America Council are (l. to r.) Sally Daley, Warren, 4th vice president; Jean Donaldson, Youngsville, 3rd vice president; Linda Thompson, Northern Area, 2nd vice president; Katy Moran, Sheffield, 1st vice president; Gail Wyman, Warren, president; Edna Franklin, Youngsville, secretary; Patty Passinger, Northern Area, treasurer; Mary Urbancic, Sheffield, historian.

THE ANNUAL INGATHERING of the Needlework Guild was held in the Woman's Club auditorium last Friday, when new articles of clothing, household linens, as well as money, were contributed for the benefit of the Family Service and Children's Aid Society, the Warren Visiting Nursing Association and the Warren Relief Association. Among Guild leaders responsible for the successful project were (l. to r.) Mrs. James Miller, incoming president; Mrs. Richard Smith, treasurer; Mrs. A. F. Dunham, secretary; Mrs. John Urbaitis, outgoing president; and Mrs. James Chapman, who served at the tea held during the afternoon.

ORDINANCE NO. 665

Amending Ordinance No. 319, entitled, "An Ordinance relating to traffic and regulating the use of public streets and highways of the Borough of Warren, Pennsylvania for the parking of vehicles by providing for the installation, regulating and control of the use of Parking Meters and providing a penalty for violation thereof and providing that invalidity of part shall not affect validity of remainder," adopted July 10, 1939 and approved July 11, 1939.

Full Time President Needed To Lead Us

By Doris Fleeson

WASHINGTON -- President Eisenhower has done the easy part of the task imposed on him by the Soviet conquest of outer space.

He has appointed a czar for the scientific defense program, Dr. James R. Killian, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He has ordered top priority for missile and rocket development without regard to inter-service rivalries.

He has advanced the idea that scientific education must be increased and research activities expanded. He has promised to ask Congress to remove barriers to the exchange of technological information with friendly countries.

All this is well within his power as Chief Executive. It is a good and necessary start. But under the American system the orders and ideas of even the President are not self-executing. The necessary next step is to put a price on the job both in terms of money and changes in the present priorities of civilian life. Then the American people must be persuaded -- and through them the Congress -- that the job must be done and the price paid.

Nor can Dr. Killian be assured of a clear path with the Presidential priorities completely honored. He will need the persistent and informed support of the President from day to day.

These are the direct and heavy responsibilities of the Presidency. They cannot be delegated, and Eisenhower's place in history will depend on the way he meets them. It is not at all what the President's party promised him when it drafted him for a second term, nor what he obviously expected. Those who suggested the wide gulf between reality and the relaxed tone of the 1956 campaign were lucky to be called nothing worse than New Dealers. But their forebodings have been cruelly justified.

On the President's desk are appearing the outlines of his formidable task. According to reliable sources his scientific advisors have reported to him both the immediate problem and the long-range program necessary to overcome the Russian challenge, with heavy price tags attached to each one.

His speech writers must remember that these things cannot possibly be concealed from an apprehensive Congress already casting a skeptical eye on the claims put forward in the President's first telecast.

It was far from a Spartan message; some technical experts found it wanting in candor about the facts of the United States position. It was of course a hurry-up job.

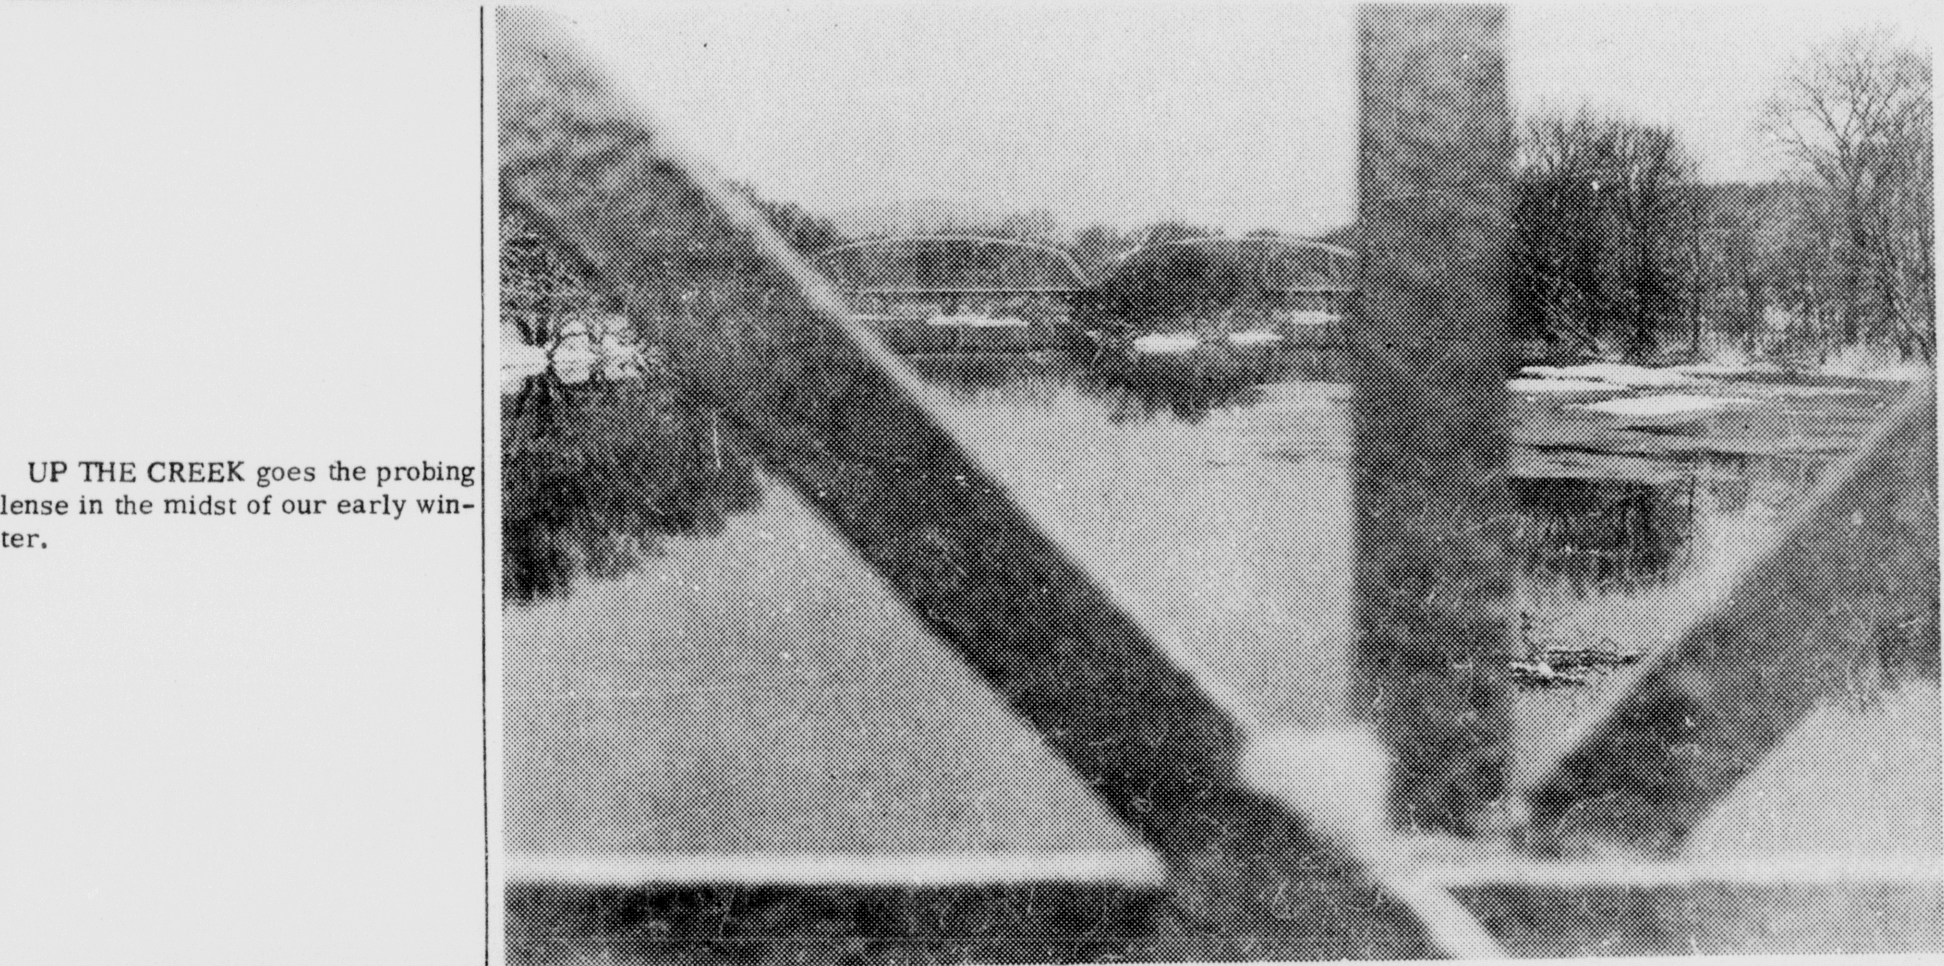

The President has moved to start the Pentagon in a new direction with younger and more flexible administrators. There is a feeling here that he could profitably modernize his White House staff along the same lines. It has never been a distinguished one despite his 1952 promises to bring "the best brains" into government service.

It is a statement of fact that there is not a leading member of Congress of either party who feels obliged to respect the opinion of an Eisenhower aide apart from the White House power that aide temporarily holds. Yet the President's party, and especially that group which arranged his 1952 candidacy, contains many men of great experience with national and international prestige. They may not want to leave their businesses at this time; several are known to have refused the job which went to Dr. Killian. But they are needed and the closer to the President the better.

ARGUMENT on an October split-decision vote favoring the increase of the new high school auditorium from 1,000 to 1,200 seats and the presentation of preliminary sketches of the new high school building highlighted the joint school committee meeting Monday night.

These two issues (read about them in "Debate Over New Area School Is Resumed" elsewhere in this edition) will be given further discussion at the area Joint Board organization meeting on December 9.

Bills receiving approval for payment by the board amounted to $11,689.76, current bills; $265, special services; $264, recreational services; $190, substitute teachers; $161.78, janitors' overtime; $789.18, orders written for the month; $8,046, cafeteria bills.

In other action Matt Hosie was named junior varsity basketball coach, Warren Carr to head the intra mural sports program, and Harold Miller to assist at the Youth Canteen on Fridays.

The state approved tuition costs of $32.36 a month at the high school and $29.56 for Beaty.

The attendance report for the second month of school showed 95 per cent for 3,760 pupils in all schools. Since 1947 the usual percentage has been 97 except for a 98 mark in 1949-50.

A matter of teacher salaries was tabled by the committee until each board has time to consider the matter individually.

STAY OF EXECUTION SOUGHT. With the temporary suspension of the date of Norman W. Moon's execution due to terminate Monday, November 18, defense attorneys are continuing their efforts to save the Connellsville man's life by asking Governor Leader for another stay of execution. His first execution date set was for September 30.

Moon, who shot Judge Allison D. Wade in a Warren County court room January 13, 1954, is awaiting execution in Western Penitentiary at Pittsburgh.

A petition for a writ of certiorari has been filed by the defense with the United States Supreme Court. This followed the Pittsburgh District Federal Court's refusal to set aside the death penalty.

The latest petition states Moon's constitutional rights were violated when Warren County Judge Alexander C. Flick, Jr., did not recognize the sanity commission's finding that the convicted man was mentally deranged.

The case has also appeared before the state pardons board. However, this body has handed down no decision as yet.

REAPPRAISAL of property and buildings in Pine Grove township started Wednesday of this week under the new tax assessment plan of the county commissioners.

A SERIES OF CAMP burglaries that were reported along the Allegheny River between Cornplanter and Kinzua have been cleared up by State Police and the Sheriff's department with the help of a concerned father. A fourteen-year-old Kinzua boy has been charged with the break-ins and thefts and has been turned over to the probation officer to await further juvenile action.

The rifles, shotguns, outboard motor, etc., taken by the lad, and hidden in the Chief Cornplanter cemetery, have been returned to the four camp owners. Victims of the break-ins were Earl Heinike, Pittsburgh, Joseph Crawford, Droversburg, William P. Stile and Edward Hill, both of Indiana, Pa.

A 21-YEAR-OLD Youngsville man is awaiting court in the Warren County jail for burglarizing the Frank Lindberg camp on York Hill. Entering a plea of guilty to the charge of taking a $200 chain saw which belonged to Salis Miller, Youngsville, was Garry Kemp. He was charged recently for purse-snatching in Youngsville.

RIFLES AND SHOTGUNS worth about $200 were stolen from the Atlantic Service Station in Sugar Grove this past week end. State police are investigating.

A SERIES OF ACCIDENTS were looked into by State Police during the past week, the first a lone car job at 5:30 p.m. Thursday just west of Youngsville on Route 6. Here Metro Fedorchuk, 50, of Youngsville lost control of his vehicle and ended up in Warren General Hospital for minor treatment. About $400 damage was caused.

Karen Dates, 18, of Girard, required treatment from a Youngsville physician last Saturday after running into a ditch near Garland at 5:40 p.m. Damage was $400.

A three-car mishap occurred at 2:45 p.m. Tuesday four miles north of Warren on Route 62 where Evelyn Prettyman, Russell, slowed down and was hit in the rear by Clarence Stockton, R. D. 2, Warren, who in turn got it in the back end by Clair Waite, Russell. Total damage was placed at $700 and a passenger, Arthur Stockton, age 70, was hospitalized with a head injury.

WEDNESDAY CRASH. Mrs. Phyllis Svensen, 118 Central ave., was arrested for failing to stop at a stop sign Wednesday after a 4:40 p.m. accident at the intersection of Jackson and Prospect streets. The woman driver pulled into the intersection from Prospect and was struck by an east bound auto on Jackson driven by Raymond L. Simonsen, R.D. 1, Warren.

Approximately $400 damage was caused to both cars and a passenger, Sheryl Svensen, 7, suffered bruised lips from the mishap.

WARREN COUNTY SCHOOLS meet the public again this Saturday in a 9 a.m. broadcast over WNAE. At this time various teachers from county schools will present a skit with an American Education Week thought. A North Warren student, Vincent Morgan, will also have a part in the play.

A PAIR OF too fast for conditions charges were made by borough police last week end.

On Saturday Ross E. Jennings, Louisville, Ky., driving a convoy, hit the rear of a stopped vehicle operated by Mrs. Lawrence Dininny, Bradford, on Pennsylvania avenue, E., causing $200 damage to the car.

A similar accident happened Saturday evening at the Conewango and Pennsylvania avenue intersection where Floyd A. Ahlquist, 1211 Pennsylvania ave., E, stopped and was struck by Charles F. Kemery, 29 S. South st. Total damage in this case was $500.

CROWDED. Sidney J. Melville, Titusville, told police he was crowded by a semi truck into a parked car owned by Hazel A. Kays, 10 1/2 Water st., Warren, in the 1400 block of Pennsylvania ave., E., at 12:45 p.m. Tuesday. Only damage was $150 to the Warren car.

HEAVY SNOW and parked cars were blamed when Charlotte Smith, 418 Pennsylvania ave., E., pulled out Cedar st. at 10:44 a.m. Sunday and hit the side of a second auto operated by Linton Johnson, of Johnsonburg, who was crossing the intersection. Damage was estimated at $150.

WHEN Victoria LeTrent, 807 Fourth ave., stopped to make a turn in the 1800 block of Pennsylvania ave., W., Monday her car was struck in the back end by a vehicle operated by Harry C. Brew, of Chandlers Valley, causing $250 damage.

A COMMITTEE which will study the effects of the Kinzua Dam construction on this community and will offer its service to the Corps of Army Engineers in keeping the public informed is to be appointed by the Chamber of Commerce as a result of action taken Tuesday night.

The matter was presented by Harry A. Logan, who stated the influx of construction workers to the area could create temporary economic and social problems. He suggested a liaison committee between the engineers and the community.

Two committees formed at the meeting were for developing long and short range objectives for the organization and for studying membership and financial structure of the Chamber.

In other reports it was learned that several thousand yards of fill had been dumped on the Pleasant twp. property being developed into an industrial site and that the economic and industrial survey being conducted in the county is running smoothly.

ITS LARGEST DANCE is expected by the Warren State Hospital Local when it presents Skeeter Bonn and his RCA Victor Recording Artists from WWVA, Wheeling, West Virginia. The dance will be held in the Marconi Outing Club, November 22. The former National Barn Dance member and performer on the NBC-WIW Hayride from Cincinnati, now has his own group, the Pickin and Singin Boys, and the WWVA Jamboree. Also on the program will be two singers, Lazy Jim Day and Shirley Starr.

EIGHTY-EIGHT WOMEN were present last week at the organization meeting of the Warren County Volunteer Firemen's Auxiliary. Names president of the new group, which will meet quarterly, was Mrs. Doris Esterbrook, of Starbrick.

The first regular session of the auxiliary has been set for January 2 at Russell.

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK will be observed with an open house at Warren high school from 7:30 to 9:30 this evening.

ANNUAL Y. M. C. A. MEMBER-SHIP drive will be kicked-off with

Debate Over New Area School Is Resumed

The Warren Area Joint Committee scanned tentative plans for the new high school at the regular meeting Monday. The plans are not in detail and are such that they can be shifted about to fit changes that may result from ensuing discussions. They are not being shown to the public because those in charge believe the various boards should see them first.

The auditorium apparently continues to be a subject for debate. President Keller of the Warren board told the joint committee Monday that a recent vote on the size of the auditorium was not final. He said the entire board must act on it. He suggested that inasmuch as the majority of the Warren board didn't want the 200-seat increase, it would be defeated because the Warren board has the controlling voice.

This is very short-sighted thinking. The area long has needed an adequate auditorium and often we have heard suggestions that a drive be made to build one.

We now will spend over three million dollars, including the debt service, to finance a new school. This building should serve the general public as well as the entire student body. It is quibbling to refuse adequate seating in the auditorium.

The cost would be minute compared with the price of a public auditorium. We cannot afford to have separate public buildings. These major structures must serve all of us. There is no good reason why we should not construct one that will seat all of our students at a single assembly and also one that will handle our auditorium demands for a few years to come.

Already the Beaty auditorium is becoming a fire hazard because we must use chairs to seat the overflow. It requires very little vision to foresee the same condition developing at the new high school within four or five years.

RED HERRING COSTS

Misleading articles concerning the cost of the school have been published regularly by the Warren Times Mirror. We once printed a factual report on school financing, a report which was based on the opinion of leading municipal bonding houses, one of which has done much of this work for Warren and is anxious to do so again.

The school will not cost Warren and its neighbors the enormous price intimated by the Times Mirror, and the payments on the bond issue will not result in a large tax increase. Next week we will bring this financial story up to date in a complete analytical article that will freshen the subject and enable you to obtain a clear picture of this ever important side of any public project.

Suffice it to say that the financial story is not as bleak as it is made by the daily which so strongly opposes a modern school built to fit the future. In short, a new school on a new site.

TE LA DI O

TO END TIME CONFUSION

NBC will launch the era of magnetic tape television next April to coincide with the beginning of Daylight Saving Time. Transmission of magnetic tape telecasts will come from NBC's Color City in Burbank, Calif. with its eleven tape recorders and associated equipment, and a similar set-up at Radio City in New York.

The new system will eliminate the use of kinescope and lenticular film processes by which programs have been relayed at varying times. It will make possible month-in, month-out program schedule regularity, end local scheduling problems and confusion caused by time zone differentials. Magnetic tape will also offer a far superior picture than that provided by kinescope and lenticular film processes.

FEWER OSCARS THIS YEAR

NBC-TV and Radio will cover the presentation of the coveted Oscar awards on March 26. Fewer Oscars will be given this year as the number of awards in each of the sixteen classifications will be decreased.

DIAL SPINNERS

SCOTLAND YARD, new series about the celebrated English criminal investigation unit, begins on ABC Sunday night at 10:30.

BING CROSBY has cancelled plans for a TV program scheduled for Dec. 11.

THE ROLLER DERBY, one of television's earliest attractions, will be revived on ABC on Dec. 29.

KITTY FOYLE, a daytime serial based on the Christopher Morley novel, makes its debut in January on NBC-TV.

SID CAESAR, with Imogene Coca and Carl Reiner return in a new Sid Caesar series on ABC at 9-9:30 Sunday evenings, starting January 26.

BOWLING TOURNAMENT, first world's invitational match-game bowling tournament will be covered in its final round by NBC-TV and Radio on Friday, Dec. 13 at 10 p.m. on Cavalcade of Sports. This replaces the boxing show for that night.

GREEN PASTURES' presented by NBC on Hallmark Hall of Fame Oct. 17, has received such a large volume of mail praising its performance that it may be considered again by NBC for a presentation next season.

will you see CARDUCCI?

Traveling to Italy soon? Next time you're in Bologna, stop by the University and see this heroic statue of Carducci, great man of Italian literature, poet, patriot, professor and indomitable individualist, winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature. If Carducci were traveling today, in Europe or anywhere, he would instantly see the wisdom of carrying his funds in the form of safe, convenient, everywhere-accepted TRAVELER'S CHEQUES as issued by this Bank. So — before you go, get YOURS — here!

FABULOUS INFANT

The best thing about "The Fabulous Infant," Wide World's attempt to take a look at the ten-year history of television, was the appearance of one of its most fabulous infants—Milton Berle. The former Mr. Television, thinned down, subdued and reminding me quite a lot of Alistair Cooke, of all people, strolled in the side door of Studio 6B which was built for him more or less in the spirit Yankee Stadium was built for Babe Ruth and wandered around the empty studio rattling the skeletons of the past.

Berle made a lot of sense but the one statement that struck me more forcibly than any of his others was that there is no such thing as one television audience, there are millions of TV audiences all different. "A joke that'll make a big hit in New York can lay a bomb in Buffalo. There are lots of Americans in America," he said. There are indeed and sometimes I think every single one of them has his own unique reaction to every TV show.

Berle admitted that he wasn't any smarter than anyone else in the early days of television but that he was hammy enough to say this is "how to do it" and then go ahead and do it. This, come to think of it, is the history of show business. However, the greatest comment of all was unspoken; simply the fact that the guy who owned Tuesday night now has no place at all on television--except to appear on shows like this where he plays the part of Grant's Tomb--a monument for sightseers.

Apart from Berle I found "The Fabulous Infant" a windy and fairly interminable disappointment, especially in light of what might have been done with the material. Television HAS had a fabulous decade and it'd make a great story if tackled with sense and courage.

There was none of this. NBC settled for a bunch of kinescopes, some of them pretty important milestones in TV's history. There was Howdy Doody, Toscanini, Frank Costello, Sen. McCarthy, Bishop Sheen, Jackie Gleason, Martha Raye--well, I could go on but that's how it was done and in that order. No rhyme or reason and no comment. The United Nations branding Korea an act of aggression was followed by Bob Hope making jokes about how little the TV screen was. The brief glimpse of McCarthy was succeeded hurriedly by the Davy Crockett song. Television destroyed McCarthy and that fact needed to be stated.

In fact, the whole history of television needed statement, not simply kinescopes. The history of TV is a haphazard one but there is some point and logical progression to it. Television has its high points and low points and it should be proud of the high points and at least aware of the low blows. It has produced some unusual writers like Paddy Chayevsky; it has had a stunning impact on the motion picture industry and on the living habits of all of us. None of this was even hinted at.

The show pokes its nose into the rehearsal of a live dramatic show scheduled for the following night--but a talk with the director or the producer which might have been enlightening was notably absent. Instead there were visits to the carpenter and costume departments with side trips to the electronic departments. TV has always been long on technology but short in the idea department.

However, "Wide World" did screw up its courage to the point of inviting a couple of critics aboard and turning them loose and they may have lived to regret it. Hal Humphrey of "The Los Angeles Mirror-News" and Harriet Van Horne of "The New York World-Telegram and Sun" both expressed some dissatisfaction with TV for its shortcomings. Mr. Humphrey said that TV "in the first bloom of youth is

People from every section of the community bring their difficulties to their local family service agency: Husband and wife conflicts, getting along with others on the job or at home, child behavior and parent-child relations, the approach of old age and its fears of dependency. Counsellors are trained in understanding both the inner man and his outer needs. They help a person to understand his own feelings and to adjust to the emotions of others. Strengthening family life is a primary goal of the counselor. It is in the family that personality, citizenship and fruitful living are best developed.

WOULD YOU HELP IF YOU COULD?

Jean and Fred had a happy marriage and two wonderful children. Their friends always considered them to be an ideal family. But all of a sudden everything seemed to go wrong. Fred lost his job through a lay-off and Jean simply couldn't adjust their budget to the temporary loss of income while Fred looked for another job. The financial tensions brought other tensions. Fred started to find fault with Jean's management of the house and children. Jean accused Fred of not caring about his family. Both of them nagged the children. Fred did find another job, but disharmony had come to the surface and they just didn't seem to be able to get along either as man and wife or as a family group. All the fault-finding that had gone on for the previous few months had raised discontent between them and in their children. Nothing seemed to make them happy. They considered a separation.

One of their friends realized that the family was in trouble and suggested that they visit the Family Service and Children's Aid Society for help. Both Jean and Fred knew that deep underneath their present troubles they had had a good marriage. Neither really wanted to break up the family--if they only got along better! They agreed that at least they should try to find help. At the Family Service and Children's Aid Society a kind, well-trained worker interviewed each of them and worked with them to help them find a solution to their problems.

By talking about their troubles in confidence with a skilled worker whose judgment they trusted, they came to realize that although a lot of harsh words had been exchanged, they had a basically sympathetic feeling for each other. As they received counseling, they began to understand each other's faults and strengths and worked to overcome their differences. As each made an effort to regain their happiness together, the children became easier to handle and their relationships as a family improved. They still had a lot of differences to resolve and a lot of forgiveness was necessary, but their marriage had been saved and their children could look forward to a stable future with their own family.

Jean and Fred could be anyone's neighbors. Everyone wants to help their friends in trouble, but often don't know how. The Family Service and Children's Aid Society is that friend in time of trouble. Through skilled counseling, its workers help people to help themselves and find solutions to their problems.

Every person in Warren can lend a hand in time of trouble through joining the Family Service and Children's Aid Society. By becoming a member you can assure the troubled families of the county that they have a place to turn where they can find help and guidance in times of stress. join now by sending a check to: Family Service and Children's Aid Society, P.O. ROBERT NOEHREN, recognized in both Europe and America as an authority on all types of organ, will give a recital in the First Presbyterian Church of Warren at 8:15 p. m. Wednesday, November 20. He is presently University organist and head of the organ department at the University of Michigan.

THREE WARREN HI-Y boys have been elected to office and will participate in the Youth and Government program in Harrisburg March 10.

Chosen at the pre-legislative assembly held last Saturday were Dick Elmhurst, senator, and Pat Madden and Bill Elmhurst, assemblymen. They, along with other Hi-Y boys chosen from throughout the state, will take over the capitol building next March.

Among those attending last Saturday's affair were (l. to r.) Dennis Mong, Pete Gross, Gregory Springer, Bob Burke, Pat Madden, James Alexander, and boys' secretary Jeff Reidel. Not pictured are the Elmhurst brothers and Dennis Rock.

GUEST SPEAKER at the Veterans' Day dinner at the American Legion home last Saturday evening was Dr. Ronald McNichol, of Manitoba, Canada, and presently a staff member at the Warren State Hospital.

STORE AT YOUR DOOR. A new "store at your door" idea for selling pianos and organs has been put into effect in the Warren area by Arthur Briggs, Jr., of Russell.

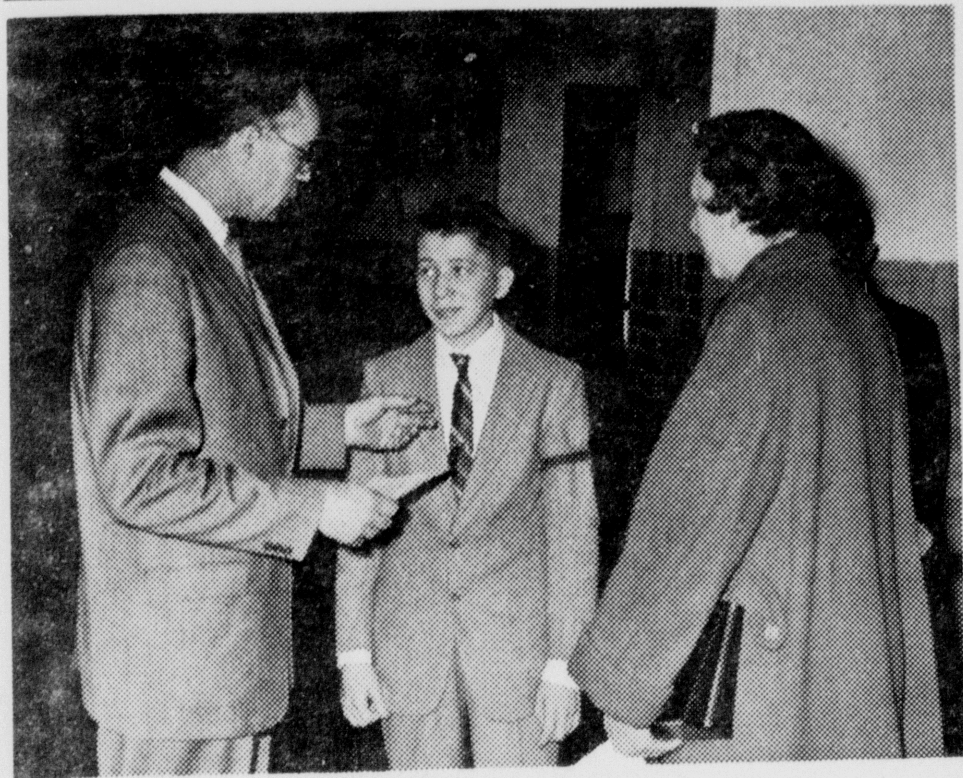

A former affiliate of the Buffalo Music House, Mr. Briggs is now selling on his own by taking the sample product to the home in an appropriately decorated truck-trailer which will haul seven or eight pianos or organs.

With the opening of his own music store in Jamestown, N. Y., next weekend, Mr. Briggs will also put on display his Mobile unit at the Motor Lighthouse in Warren from 9 to 9 Friday and 9 to 5 Saturday. On Saturday evening, from 5:30 to 7:30, the unit will appear at Pat Ferrie's Grocery in Russell. At the grand opening in Warren Miss Sallie Haley, Miss Warren County, is expected to be on hand to play the electric piano.

Mr. Briggs plans to cover the Warren and McKean county areas periodically with his van.

"OPEN HOUSE" at Beaty was observed Tuesday night in observance of American Education Week.

Pictured is traffic patrolman Robert Berlin aiding parents Mr. and Mrs. Del Henry to find their way to their child's classrooms.

JAYCEES are formulating plans for the annual Voice of Democracy project, a script writing and voicing competition which encourages high school students to think, write, and speak of the democratic principles which have made America great.

All 10th, 11th and 12th grade students in the county's high school are eligible and will take part in school finals November 20. The five finalists will compete on November 23, the winner eligible for state competition.

Jaycees working on the project here are Abe Schwartz, Harry Segel, chairman Jeff Reidel, and Creed Erickson, Jr. Also on the committee are Harry Spackman, Jim Johnson, George Frits and Lowell Runkel.

HOME STREET FIFTH GRADERS selected an appropriate theme for American Education Week.

Because of the number of flu cases among students and teachers, the open house planned for the evening has been cancelled.

LEGIONNAIRE Ken Morrison (l.) gave the invocation and the Rev. Francis Fehlman the main address at the Veterans' Day memorial service in Warren Monday.

AUTUMN GRAINS is the bulletin board theme the North Warren second grade class taught by Mrs. Florence Anderson used during American Education Week.

TAX TIPS
NUMBER 2

How To Plan Federal Income Tax Deductions

This is the second in a series of four articles on federal income taxes. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Society of Certified Public Accountants.

By waiting until after the first of the year to decide whether to itemize your deductions or take the standard 10-per cent deduction, you run the risk of losing your greatest tax-saving opportunity.

When you are forced to take the standard deduction because your deductible expenses are less than 10-per cent of your adjusted gross income, you literally "waste" your expense deductions, for tax purposes. Don't let this happen to you every year. Plan your expense outlays so that you go over the optional 10-per cent deduction occasionally. This can be done by pyramiding two years of actual expenses into one.

For example, assume that you expect to have an adjusted gross income of $7,000 for this year and actual deductible expenses of about $600—or $100 less than what you would be entitled to deduct if you took the standard 10-per cent deduction. Not included in your actual expense estimate, however, is $250 in state taxes and $100 in home-loan interest charges that will have to be paid in 1958 but which can be paid in advance.

Beat the Standard Deduction

If you act quickly and pay these expenses before December 31, you can bring your total allowable deductions for 1957 up to $950. By itemizing deductions this year and taking the standard deduction next year—when your actual expenses should be somewhat less because of what you have prepaid—your total deductions for both years will be approximately $1,650. Had you taken the standard 10-per cent deduction in both years, the total would be only about $1,400.

A salaried worker who has difficulty finding enough deductions to make itemization worthwhile might consider carrying the pyramid plan one step further. He could set up a system of "lending" and "borrowing" year-end items that would make it possible for him to throw three years of deductible expenses into one.

Timing Deductions

You can begin your own three-year pyramid by postponing payment on as much 1957 deductible expense as possible and planning to take the standard deduction on this year's return. The expenses you have postponed—or "loaned"—will increase your 1958 deductions, and in the final months of 1958 you can "borrow" from 1959 by speeding-up the payment of deductible items.

As a result of your pyramiding, you maximize your expenses for 1958 (when you should be able to beat the standard deduction by itemizing), and minimize your deductible items for 1957 and 1959 (when you will take the standard deduction and waste your actual expenses). The general rule to follow when you are trying to make the most of your actual expenses is: keep outlays as low as possible in the years in which you take the standard deduction and pyramid them as much as possible in the years in which you itemize expenses.

Pyramid Medical Expenses

Most taxpayers need look no further than their family medical bills to find a deductible expense that can be pyramided to gain a welcomed tax advantage. The section of the tax law governing the deductibility of medical expenses states that unless you or your wife will be 65 years old by January 1, 1958, you may deduct only those medical expenses for 1957 in excess of 3 per cent of your gross income.

If you find that you are near or over the 3 per cent minimum and you are going to itemize deductions this year, you should pay as many of your medical bills as possible before December 31. And since medical expenses can be deducted only in the year paid (but cannot be prepaid), you might even consider speeding-up and paying for the dental work, eye examinations and general physical check-ups your family will otherwise be having in the early part of 1958.

Taxpayers who had low medical expenses for 1957 should reverse this procedure, postponing the payment of their year-end medical bills until after the first of the year. In this way, they may be able to exceed the minimum requirement in 1958 and to gain a benefit from a payment that would otherwise be lost on their 1957 return.

Plan Premium Payments

The premiums you pay on your health, accident and hospital insurance policies can be deducted as a medical expense—so plan your payments accordingly. To give you greater flexibility in the shifting of medical deductions from one year to the next, you might arrange to have these premiums fall due in January.

VISIT WITH CARE

If anyone wants to attend the international live stock exposition and horse show in Chicago we have a couple of press passes that will let them come and go as they please. The dates are November 29 to December 7 and we don't expect to make it.

But we should warn you that on the back of the ticket it says Note! Important. And then follows with a paragraph that the show operators are not liable for any injury that befalls you even if it is caused by the negligence of its agents. This, we assume, includes the horses and bulls. We're staying home.

CLEAN IT UP

Football still has some cleaning up to do. There is too much deliberate violating of the rules. Some boys claim that they have been told to hold and to commit other violations. This is stupid leadership.

Saturday we watched Duke play Navy. Both teams executed some very good plays against tough defenses, but most of those which would have set up chances to score were called back on penalties. What was gained?

We note this in many games, local and televised. Key plays that would pay off are lost to the officials.

The loss is not in the specific game alone. The fans come to see clever plays and exciting runs. When a big share of them are nullified the game loses its attraction. And when the game loses its attraction the empty seats take so much out of the cash register that the possible result should drive home the facts if ethics fail.

Perhaps there is little use of talking about sportsmanship and teaching the boys how to play the game fairly. But here is one fan who is becoming very bored with hearing, "There is a flag down on the play" or with seeing it drop in local action.

LET US DO IT

And while we are commenting a bit on football, we have a television wish. We would like to watch the entire play area so that we can see what both teams are doing. Not only do the cameramen miss many of the plays when the ball-handling is clever but we enjoy watching the play of all positions. At least mix it up a bit, boys, so that we who enjoy the entire pattern can have some fun, too.

SHUTTER NEWS

Those who enjoy photography should be interested in the announcement that Josephine U. Herrick, New York city photographer who has made a big name for herself in this field, will be an instructor at Chautauqua next summer. She now is teaching photography at New York University and the Ballard School.

In addition to her teaching background she has done much freelance photography and is a specialist in portraiture, homes, interiors, and gardens. She also is the founder of the Volunteer Service Photographers dedicated to teaching rehabilitation photography to patients in army, navy, and civilian hospitals.

AMERICAN TUNE-OUT

We seem to be narrowing our television entertainment to a selected few programs, and pay very little attention to others even if the set is turned on. We enjoy the special events that flick us thousands of miles to a first-hand view of occurrences we otherwise never would see. And we can tolerate good drama programs, such as Playhouse Ninety, Climax, and an occasional old movie.

We also seem to be enjoying a few westerns this year. Some of them have fairly good plots and our natural hunger for adventure welcomes this vicarious excitement.

Sunday seems to offer much of the best, starting late in the afternoon and carrying through early evening. After that we turn it off. We go for Omnibus, Seven Lively Arts, Twentieth Century, and similar "class" attempts. Even when the program isn't good, we enjoy seeing the industry try.

This is not an experience peculiar to us. Millions of viewers are developing blind eyes to tv even as they previously grew deaf ears to much of radio.

This suggests a major loss to the advertisers. If the listener or viewer will mentally "tune-out" much of the entertainment, imagine what he does to the commercials.

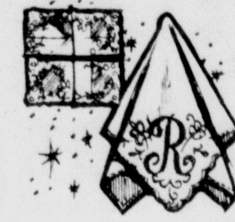

This is not our idea as a newspaperman. This thought comes from John P. Cunningham, president of a national advertising agency and expressed to the Association of National Advertisers a week or two ago. He said:

"The 'index of boredom' has been rising steadily (on television). But people are long-suffering. They will watch programs that bore them, but they tend to tune-out their minds -- which is bad for advertising."

The listener and viewer who amuses us is the advertiser. He has as deaf an ear and as blind a spot for large portions of the radio and tv programs that blare forth in his home as do his potential customers. Yet his ego apparently convinces him that his message is so important that certainly everyone makes an exception and listens to it or sits entranced.

He has not awakened to the fact that he is no exception. The customer also is "tuning out".

LOADED FOR BEAR

In a pair of weeks the big guns will be booming at Pennsylvania's truly big game, the black bear. This fellow is a little more difficult to find than deer, and he also can soak up more lead. About this time of year he has his fat layers well filled for the long winter, and the cold days will be used up with much sleeping.

Big males, covered with snow, have been known to startle hunters who have passed what they thought was a rock. When the solid bit of landscape uttered a growl the hunter naturally felt his skin creep a bit.

The Game Commission release last week had a bit about this animal which may interest you, especially if you are preparing to look one up for the purpose of knocking it dead. Here is a bit of the story:

Black bears eat both vegetable and animal foods. They feed on insects, fish, larvae, nuts, fruits, vegetables, succulent roots, and small mammals. If ravenously hungry in late winter, before natural foods are available, an individual may make off with a sheep, young pig or poultry, and he relishes honey wherever he can locate it. Bears causing damage are at times live trapped and released elsewhere in good hinterland habitat.

The diminutive size and premature appearance of newborn bears have excited much comment. At birth the young are barely the size of a guinea pig, are nearly naked and weigh but 8 to 12 ounces. In Pennsylvania the cubs usually are born in January. The hibernating mother protects and warms the nursing youngsters with her body during the two cold months that follow. The eyes of the infants do not open until six weeks after birth.

Cubs do not leave the den of their own accord until the weather moderates in late winter, at which time they weight 5 or 6 pounds. The young, numbering from one to three, rarely four, remain with the mother until fall at least. During these months they have her protection, and receive demonstrations on how to live successfully. The female bears young every other year, after maturity is reached. The life span of the black bear is about 25 years.

Hunters often see two or three cubs with a large female during the bear season. The youngsters average from 40 to 60 pounds then, and are not legal game in this state. By the time the next autumn arrives the young bears weigh from 120 to 140 pounds, and have reached the age they may lawfully be taken.

Black bears are not normally vicious, but since they are never trustworthy it is unwise for humans to approach them closely. Bears see poorly, except at close range, but their senses of hearing and smell are acute.

Call them what you will - clowns of the woods, bee hive wreckers or whatever - to a host of outdoorsmen who enjoy hunting them in our mountains and swamplands the black bear is the most valuable trophy animal in the commonwealth.

MAYBE YOU HIT IT

Too many hunters are inclined to shrug their shoulders and walk away if game doesn't drop when they fire. There isn't an animal or bird in our woods that always falls over in a heap when pricked by a few shot.

Many times the shot does not conk the game cold, but it does hit a vital spot and will start to "take" after the game has traveled a short distance. Take up the trail and have a long look. That bird may have dropped far down the hill under sheer momentum.

If you have shot many grouse you know how they will make a sudden turn and let gravity add to their drop down a slope. It is a difficult shot, but a bird hit under those circumstances is not apt to plummet to the ground immediately underneath his wings. He is more apt to carry on down the slope for many yards.

Hunting without a dog, such birds and many rabbits and squirrels can escape you after they have been pinged. It is worth a thorough search even when the game does not falter and when you doubt if you made a hit. Shot scatters in strange patterns some times, and the poorest of aim may bring off surprising results.

Most important to us is to find the wounded animal, which will suffer a slow death, or will be killed by an enemy. Why leave it for the fox? Take it home for your own pot with a close look and a bit of optimism.

NO MORE CONCERN

And so ends another forest fire threat and on comes a bit of early winter. It seems that too many Saturdays have been damp or cold so far, even though the season started well back in October. It probably has more to do with the many small kills reported than does the supply of game.

The high wind of Saturday was not conducive to good hunting. Game is difficult to hear of even see when the limbs and underbrush are waving and roaring. And it also is apt to stay very close.

The squirrels prefer quiet limbs for their romping in the tree tops, and even those bold enough to dance through the swaying boughs are not so easily noted. A sweeping limb on a quiet day tells the hunter much more than when the wind is howling.

Many hunters also prefer not to be in the timberlands when the wind is pounding at limbs that are ready to give when the right or wrong twist comes along. And they have a very good point. Especially if they are hunting alone.

We have wandered from the snow that covers the ground as this is written. It will do much to freshen our streams and springs, and certainly should saturate the ground sufficiently to lend protection during these days when more humans than usual are spending their time in the woodlands.

RAIDERS TAKE DRAGONS 12 to 0 IN BLIZZARD

A touchdown in each of the middle two quarters gave the Jamestown Red Raiders a 12 to 0 win over the Warren Dragons in a blizzard at Jamestown last Saturday night. The snow came down so fast that Jamestown officials gave up after trying in vain to clear the field with a snow plow before the game started.

The game was played with no side line or yard line markers visible and the goal lines were marked by men waving red flags. The center portion of the field was relatively clear with only a couple of inches of the white stuff covering it while four to five inches of snow clogged both sidelines.

Jamestown scored in the second period on a five yard plunge by fullback Lesser and in the third quarter halfback Mole scampered 65 yards through the Warren defense to give his team a 12 to 0 lead.

Warren and Lou Mascaro threatened to score twice during the game. Early in the second half Mascaro pilfered a Jamestown aerial and started to plow his way along the sideline with no one between him and the goal line. But the slippery pigskin slipped from his grasp at midfield and he was buried in the snow when he recovered the ball.

Late in the game Mascaro took the Dragons from their own 20 to the Jamestown 5 with runs of 40 yards, 20 yards and 15 yards. But a 15-yard penalty cut the threat short.

At Jamestown, the Dragons put forth their best team effort since the Corry game with most of the team seeming to have that desire to play winning football. If this spirit continues, the Dragons could spell trouble to their last two opponents, Erie Academy and Meadville, and they could possibly come up with a win in one of their two remaining games.

Next Saturday the Blue and White will go for that initial win against Erie Academy on Memorial Field at 1:30 p.m.
